Louise Reichlin & Dancers

After packing houses in four states, Louise Reichlin & Dancers, a performing company of Los Angeles Choreographers & Dancers, comes for the first time to the Frida Kahlo Theatre with its critically acclaimed production The Patchwork Girl of Oz. As part of our 32nd Season we present a magical modern-day fable that brings to life the adventures of Ojo, as he goes on a quest to bring his uncle, who has been turned into marble, back to life. Along the way he makes new friends, including the marvelously contemporary Patchwork Girl, and learns the importance of working together as part of a community. Although the original book was written in 1913, its values, emphasizing cooperation, family, friendship, respect for all life and ultimately self-reliance, are still important almost 100 years later.

Ten fantastical dances, woven together with multimedia, music, and narration help tell the story. This show is perfect for parents and children to attend together. While younger viewers will be delighted by the magical world of OZ and Ojo's adventures, adults will find its imaginative combining of jubilant dancing and choreography, lively and exotic music, sophisticated multimedia imagery and fabulous costumes most fulfilling. Narration is in English.
